

Delivery Packing Procedure

Process 1	Selection of the subject products for delivery packaging	Personnel resource	No designation
		Material resource	No designation
INPUT
The suppliers shall voluntarily select the products that subject for delivery method and delivery packaging (the products that packaging specifications must be agreed upon with Honda) with taking into consideration the following items, but are not limited to the following:
a) Maintain the quality b) The shape, weight c) Protection and security against theft or for confidentiality
Note
Honda may specify to the suppliers which products are subject to the preparation of a delivery packaging specification.
Process 2	Arrangement of delivery packaging specification	Personal resource	No designation
		Material resource	No designation
INPUT
The suppliers shall prepare the packaging specifications of the products (from the time of shipment until they are used by Honda) with taking into consideration the following items, but are not limited to the following:
a) Prevent damage to products from the follows: - Breakage, scratch, deform, tear, loose, detached, stain b) Prevent deterioration to products from the follows: - Swell, rust, discoloration, color fading, hardening, softening c) Prevent products from collapse or protrusion d) Prevent interference to products from the follows: - Between products and products, or products and container e) Shock protection including follows: - Protection material, dunnage, partition f) Identification methods including follows: - Display location - Clarity (misuse prevention, identification points with similar products) - Display of lot and content information - Indication to enable verification of FIFO implementation (e.g., clear indication of delivery date and time) - Display of company name, etc. on containers and carts - Special identification for products that differ from mass production (e.g., products for the next model, production prototype products, etc.) based on consultation with Honda (Material service division) - Identification method when different products are mixed in the same container, etc. (shall be easily identifiable by visual inspection) g) Identification on each delivery container, etc., by means of clearly marked parts specification card, etc., including the follows: - Supplier name - Supplier Code - Honda part number - Honda part name - Delivery date specified by Honda - Quantity - Number of containers - Lot No. - Line Address (name, No., etc.) - Other information for identification based on consultation with Honda, if necessary h) Protection from the environment including follows: - Water, heat, air, light, dust, foreign particles, climate, long-term storage i) Synchronization with Honda's production line j) Transfer of products at the supplier's site including follows: - Consideration to size and weight limits for the lift, elevator, conveyer k) Workability including follows: - Easiness in taking out, weight, easiness in holding, miss assembly prevention l) Environment protection including follows: - Reuse, recycle, returnable m) Personnel safety including follows: - Projection, pinching n) Efficiency of loading and transportation of products o) Prevention of past problems from recurring p) Regulations and policies with respect to containers of products

